Various rumors having their origin in Chinese sources are floating around Shang-One of these rumors is to the effect that Prince Tuan and his followers are preparing to leave Peking in case the allies ould succeed in getting near the capital. Reports have been received in London to the effect that the hospital ship Maine has arrived at Colombo.

Speaking at a Primrose League demonstration at Eagle's Cliff, Lord Londenderry expressed a hope that when the allies reach Peking the first step will be the punishment, not as in the past, of a few subordinates, but of the mandarins and others high in authority. There, he was of the opinion, all vengeance ought to end. A special dispatch from Shanghai, dated Friday, Aug. 10, says the British consul general, replying to the protests of Chinese merchants against the landing of troops, explains that this is merely a precautiontry measure, due to the fact that the dissurbances north are spreading and coming fally nearer to Shanghai. He also says Klang-Su is already in a state of revolt, and that at Tai-Tung there has been serious rioting, the telegraph station being

FIRST PROPOSALS TO FURNISH AR-MOR PLATE UNSATISFACTORY.

Provisions of the New German Meat Law, Which Goes Into Effect on the 1st of October.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 .- The Navy Department has rejected all the bids for armor plate. This does not mean that the government will adopt the alternative of building an armor plate plant, but new advertisements will be issued and new bids received. The bidders will be given an opportunity to adjust their terms to meet the requirements of the department, espein the face of his cousin, Inez Crist, seven- | cially in regard to the delivery of the armor. The length of time required for this in the first bids was one of the reasons of their being rejected.

Another reason assigned for the rejection of bids is the demand from all the bidders for too large a proportion of the entire smount of armor plate. The lowest bidder, the Midvale Steel Company, would not accept less than 20,000 tons of the 36,000 to be contracted for. The Bethlehem and Carnegic companies were much higher in their figures, and insisted on having the whole amount of armor divided between them on equal terms.

xxx The main provisions of the meat law, recently enacted by the German government, effecting among other things the absolute prohibition of American canned meats and sausages, will take effect Oct. 1 next. The cablegram of Admiral Remey, transmitting the report of General Chaffee as to the battle of Yang-Tsun, together with the commander at the front, contains few decompelled to assault them. Finnally, after forming their line, the allies were obliged to charge over a stretch of territory three miles in extent, directly into the teeth of the Chinese rifle and shell fire. The intense China at this season of the year gives the efficials of the War Department a full realization of the arduous work which such a were many prostrations and deaths from sunstroke creates little surprise. eral belief, however, is that it is General Chaffee's own statement. It is known that the commanders of the allied forces, when they arranged for the advance from Tien-

Tsin, had agreed to make Yang-Tsun the objective. This statement was contained in General Chaffee's dispatch outlining the plan of the advance movement. It is presumed, therefore, that, having carried out the plan for the movement as far as Yang-Tsun, the commanders of the allies will have to go into consultation again to decide on the further course of the advance from that point to Peking. This is considered unfortunate, owing to the possibility that dissensions and jealousies may arise Temporary Repairs Will Be Sufficient to Make the Vessel Serviceable.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.-The Japanese government has not informed this government that her dock at Kure could not be used by the Oregon long enough to make permanent repairs, as published to-day; but this government, knowing the great value of the dock at Kure, felt that it would be an imposition to monopolize so valuable an adjunct of the Japanese navy just at this time, and therefore has decided that the Oregon shall be only temporarily repaired at present. The word "temporary" conveys perhaps a false impression, inasmuch as the repairs which she will undergo will be complete as far as they go. The repairs to the injuries to her hull will be complete when she leaves the Kure dock, but the work of repairing the interior fittings to her injured compartments will be postponed until some convenient time in the future. It is said at the Navy Department that when she leaves the Kure dock the Oregon can resume active service and remain in commission as long as may be deemed necessary. The Navy Department has been informed that the gunboat Nashville has sailed from Taku for New-Chwang. The district around New-Chwang is reported to be in a disturbed condition, and there have been several reports of collisions between the Russians and the Chinese in the vicinity. While the department here has no information on the subject, it is presumed that Admiral Remey ordered the Nashville to that point as a precautionary measure, as in his report to the Navy Department he stated that the Nashville, after a brief stay at New-Chwang, would return to Che-Foo.

In the event conditions become such as to justify the Red Cross in taking up its legitimate work in China it is very likely it will do so in cooperation with the Red Cross of Japan. The only nations which have not acceded to the Geneva treaty of the Red Cross are China and Mexico, so that, should the Red Cross undertake its work in a war between the nations and China, it would have to do so, so far as China is concerned, by a special understanding with that country. Japan, however, being a neighbor of China, and the Red Cross of that nation being one of the richest and strongest, it is thought the American Red Cross could do better work in co-operation with the Red Cross of Japan than by acting independently. Of course, it is not known as yet just what the Red Cross of Japan would do in answer to such a proposition, but it is highly probable that efficient co-operation between the two national associations could be effected. By unanimous action of the board this matter was placed in the hands of the presment of the association to take such steps

Small, Wiry and Strong, with Plenty of Endurance.

New York Tribune. "The country upon which you want to keep your eye is Japan," said Elwood Dow. | the wad stays right where it is.' Like a Mr. Dow has traveled extensively in Japan and knows whereof he speaks. "Military men the world over are agreed." he continued, "that the ideal soldier is a small, compactly built and proportionately strong man. Such a one will march a larger and physically stronger man off his feet. He can live on less and go further. It seems a rule of proportion that the nearer you get to the earth in point of size the more of it you can cover. At least that is the rule that army experts will give you, and they figure these things pretty closely. This being true, the 'Jap' is the ideal soldier of the world, for he is smaller, stronger and can live on less than any other known human being. In some army maneuvers recently held a Japanese army corps broke all known records, for it marched further in one day and consumed less food than an army corps of any other nationality had ever been able to do. You want to keep in memory, too, that in that island empire there are no less than 45,000,000 people, and fight crops out in every one of them. They long and aspire for a foothold on the mainland, and I miss my guess if one of the outcomes of the present Chinese crisis will not be for Japan to take somewhere a large and luxuriant section of territory. After Japan beat China in 1895 Russia calmly stepped in and robbed her of the fruits of that victory. Then, Japan raging, but impotent, had perforce to accept the situation. She said nothing, but she hasn't forgotten it. Since then Japan has learned a lot, and it's been principally about fighting. It's a good safe bet that whatever Japan gets out of the smash this time she'll keep. If she doesn't, the country that takes it away from her will carry away also a pair of black eyes and a very bloody nose.' "The 'Japs' are as clever as they make them." continued the speaker. "They've got money to burn, and are willing to burn it provided modern battleships, modern artillery, etc., rise out of the smoke. In fact, on these terms, Japan has had a continuous conflagration for the last five years, until to-day she has a magnificent navy and as fine an army for its size as can be found the world over. Logically and naturally, in this row she will stand with England and ourselves, for, like us, she wishes to preserve the entity of the Chinese empire. She will be no mean ally and will do her share. I am a great admirer of the Japanese, of their frugality and ability to work, of their brains and progressiveness. They are just emerging from some dark ages of their own, but they are emerging at a bound. They are rich and progressive and aspire to be the dominant power of the Orient. Personally, I would not be at all surprised if they accomplished this am-"Let me tell you a couple of stories to illustrate their strength and endurance. They have a rule all over Japan that you must take the first 'rickshaw' or sampan (harbor boat) in the line, no matter whether you want it or not. When I first landed at Nagasaki I didn't know a word of Japanese, so I went down the 'riskshaw' line until I found a chap who could talk a little English. Him I engaged and brought to the wharf. Instantly there was an awful row, and all the other 'rickshaw' men fell to beating the man I had engaged. They are little bits of chaps, standing never more than five feet, and seldom over four feet six high. I went to the poor devil's aid and picked them up and threw them aside as easily as though they had been children, but I felt as though I had hold of writhing. living bundles of steel wire, so strong were they. They showed not the slightest resentment toward me, but as soon as I'd let them go they'd pound that poor devil some more. Finally I gave it up, as I was only doing him harm, and took the first 'rickshaw' on the line. He knew no English, so we worked the city out by pointing. I have never run up against anything as strong for their weight as those little devils were. The man I engaged trundled me all over Nagasaki, covering fully ten miles during the day. Then he went off and got a helper to push behind, and the two of them whisked me seven miles out to a teahouse. Although the road had a number of hills in it, they kept on a run all the way without stopping. Later they brought me nome in the same manner."

Technical Matrimony.

Mr. Stevenson remarks explanatorily that their union "has been for a long time past a matter of formality," and that their domestic relations "have been of a purely technical nature." Now, we have heard of sentimental marriages, of marriages of convenience, and of commercial marriages, but this is our first experience with domestic relations "of a purely technical nature." from me," said an old railroad detective, "and that was under very peculiar circumstances. In 1882, when I was working for the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe road, I captured a fellow named Jim Lake, who was wanted for robbing freight cars. I got him near Trinidad, Col., and, after securing the requisition papers, started East with him for Kansas City. Lake was a little, consumptive chap, as frall as a woman, Eyre-Cragin Canal Concession Taken and I didn't consider it necessary to even put the handcuffs on him. With one twist I could have broken him in two. Besides, I didn't care to cause him needless humiliation by exhibiting him before the other passengers in the role of a prisoner. so we simply sat side by side, like two fellow-tourists, and nobody in the cars had any idea he was under arrest. Naturally we did a good deal of talking, and at about dusk of the first evening out Lake turned the conversation to curious mechanical contrivances and described several remarkable machines he had seen. He had been a skilled engineer earlier in life, and, being a good talker, soon got me deeply interested. Among other things he told me about an air pump with a singular ball valve. 'The ball lies in a socket,' he said, and the greater the air pressure behind it the tigher it sticks.' To illustrate, he twisted an old envelope into a cone and dropped a paper wad into the mouth. 'Now, when I blow,' he continued, 'you'll see that fool, I stared at the thing, and he blew violently into the little end. At the same instant I felt as if a raging furnace had suddenly belched its flames right into my face. I couldn't see, I couldn't breathe; for a moment or two I couldn't even move. My throat and nostrils were on fire, and I felt sure my eyes had been burned literally out of their sockets. What had happened was simply this: The envelope was full of red pepper and I had received the charge, point black, at about a six-inch range. While I was gasping the scoundrel ran to the other end of the car. 'My friend has a fit!' he shouted; 'I'm going after water!' Of course, he jumped off, and that was the last of him. He was never caught. The other day a man tried to sell me a lawn sprinkler. 'It has a patent ball valve,' he said. 'I don't want it,' I replied.' Plumbers Aid Chicago Strikers.
